

Quietly elegant, the Marriott Easter Brunch was a spectacle for the senses

The Palm Beach Ballroom of the Marriott Resort and Stellaris Casino welcomed both islanders and visitors to a beautifully presented Easter Sunday Brunch featuring not only gourmet food, but also fun and surprises for the kids as well.

When not busy selecting their favorite flavor of ice cream and topping from the sundae wagon, children got their faces or bodies painted in an Easter motif, or were able to stay entertained with free arcade games. Mom and Dad had some time to relax and truly enjoy such gourmet delights as fresh oysters, prime rib from the carving station, or two kinds of chocolate mousse. Events Manager Eduard Renaud was rightly proud of the beautiful display, which included an Easter basket ice sculpture, and the perfect way to keep fresh shrimp well chilled, a giant Easter egg made of ice filled with the tempting crustaceans.

The Monahan clan, who are separated by some distance in the States, with one brother in Pennsylvania and the other in Long Island, have been uniting for a family vacation in Aruba by spending two weeks at the Ocean and Surf Clubs ten years. Easter was extra special this year, as it was also the birthday of young Matt, the son of brother Bill and wife Joanne, and the Easter Brunch made it the perfect sixth birthday celebration.

Additionally making it a great day for the kids, and with which no Easter celebration is complete without, was a visit from Peter Rabbit. He made young Theo of Aruba laugh, though his two-month-old sister wasn't too sure about the giant Easter bunny. It was a fun day for adults and children alike at the Marriott's amazing Easter Sunday Brunch!
